

Finding forever homes for our rescues

It continues to amaze me how much gets done each and every day at Straydog and what a great job our kennel crew and caregivers do to make sure that these wonderful dogs get the very best life has to offer (until they find their forever homes).

We've asked the question many times, "What about this one? " and for those doggies who we are able to take in, and who are able to be adopted into loving homes with families to take care of them, we feel very lucky. Given the number of dogs in other shelters, rescue groups and running the streets, we are always thankful when one of ours finds its new home because we never take it for granted.

We know that some dogs take longer than others to find their new families. One of the questions we get when someone adopts a Straydog doggie who has been with us for a while is, "Why hasn't this one been adopted yet? He's such a great dog." Our answer to that is, "We guess they were waiting for you since you are their perfect family."

Some of our dogs get adopted within weeks and others take years. Some of the old-timers have been here 14 years, and some of them are beginning to pass on never having experienced any home other than Straydog. Whatever time frame it may be, and wherever they may end up, we've always believed that when they get there, it's exactly where they are supposed to be.

We hope you enjoy reading about our success stories over the past year. Unfortunately we can't write about them all as it would take a 100-page book to highlight all of the dogs who have made it to a new family and a wonderful forever home.

With your support we can continue to carry on Straydog's mission of rescue, rehabilitating and providing a good life and happy home for the doggies while they are with us waiting for their forever homes with a loving family.

We appreciate your compassion and help so we can keep taking dogs into our lifeboat after getting a few of them to new families on the shore. Thank you for all that you do.

Sincerely,

Melissa
